CLOSER LOOK: The 2019 Holy Bull winner put in a carbon copy of that career-defining performance last time, skimming the rail while rocketing from last-to-first to spring the upset as the longest shot in the field; that 96 Beyer certainly puts him in the conversation here, as long as he can maintain this form; yet that's no guarantee given his up-and-down 3yo season; should get a little pace to close into with Bodexpress and Rare Form in the mix, but he still needs to prove himself against this tougher field and it seems unlikely that Dylan Davis can orchestrate a better trip than Lanerie did last time; mixed signals.

Comes in off one of the worst performances of his career, as he was cooked on the front end in the GP Mile by today's rival Rare Form, eventually fading to last; perhaps the rail post position was not ideal for him that day; was more successful in the Pegasus World Cup when allowed to stalk a moderate pace, so perhaps his connections will change up his speedy tactics from last time; at his best, he's talented enough to win a race like this, but 9F could be stretching him to his limit; one to consider.

This 6yo appeared to find his niche as a dirt marathoner in late 2018 and he carried that success over into last season; yet his connections tried to cut him back to more conventional route distances later in the year with disappointing results; now he's returning from a layoff, again at a distance that is short of his best; at his peak he would have been one of the top contenders here, but it feels like those days are behind him; fringe player.

Was lucky to hang on last time when his rider appeared to misjudge the finish going today's trip; was facing a weaker off-the-turf field that day, though runner-up Ekhtibaar did return to finish 3rd in a stakes at Aqueduct with an 86 Beyer; yet this colt has never earned a speed figure that puts him in the mix and he could find himself racing too close to what figures to be an honest early pace; prefer others.

Finished well back of Harvey Wallbanger last time in his first start in over 7 months, but his effort wasn't as poor as it might seem; was racing in heavy traffic for much of his trip whereas Harvey got that dream run through along the rail; has a right to move forward with that effort under his belt, though he would still need to produce a career-best effort to contend for a top spot here; yet this 5yo still has upside and is one to include at a price, even if the victory seems just out of reach.

Had to work harder than expected to get the job done at 1-5 in the off-the-turf Allen Jenkins two back and wanted no part of the turf last time; performs best when he can contest the early lead and that kind of trip could be difficult to attain with Bodexpress and Rare Form in the race; his reputation got a boost with that 3rd in the Marathon on BC weekend, but that was a fairly weak edition of that race; furthermore, despite having shown some admirable versatility in regard to his distance preferences, he's still yet to achieve a Beyer that makes him particularly formidable against graded stakes foes; too many hurdles to overcome.

Year-round Florida resident has been overmatched in his two graded stakes attempts thus far at the meet and seems unlikely to improve upon those results here; has been fairly consistent from a Beyer standpoint, but even his best figs suggest he's too slow to even hit the board against this group.

Comes in off a bit of a layoff following a disappointing effort in his 2019 finale; wouldn't hold that Woodbine performance against him since this guy is 5-for-12 on dirt and 1-for-9 on all other surfaces during this career; put forth some strong efforts on dirt last year, finishing a strong 2nd to Marconi in the Skip Away before winning the G3 Cornhusker with a career-best 96 Beyer; even his 3rd-place effort in the Lukas Classic was solid considering the moderate pace of that affair; 9F appears to be his ideal distance and he projects to get an honest race flow ahead of him; Geroux taking over the reins only bolsters confidence; the pick.

The elder statesmen of this crew still can measure up against his peers from a Beyer standpoint, but he's had trouble getting to the winner's circle in recent seasons; ran remarkably well in the Brooklyn last year after sustaining a wide trip over a rail-biased surface; went off form thereafter, but got back on track with a solid 2nd at Belmont before trying this level in the Harlan's Holiday last time; got too far back in the early going last time before launching a belated rally; Paco Lopez should place him closer to the pace and the slight stretch-out to 9F may really work to his advantage; don't underestimate.

While he's only been a minor factor at the finish in his two Gulfstream starts this winter he actually ran quite well both times; was game to hang on for 3rd two back after chasing a very fast pace and then last time he put away today's rival Bodeexpress on the front end before succumbing to the talented Mr. Freeze; he clearly possesses the raw talent to compete at this level, but the stretch-out to 9F has to be of some concern; got awfully leg-weary in his most recent two-turn attempt at Churchill and that was after setting a more moderate pace than he's likely to encounter this time; still figures to lead them a long way.

Was never a serious threat in his return last time, though he was beaten by a pair of very talented runners; still, it's been a long time since he's earned a Beyer that makes him remotely competitive against a field like this and he's achieved much of his dirt success against weaker company; it's a good sign that Bill Mott is getting ambitious for his 5yo season, but he has to show more to be considered a viable contender at this level. -David Aragona

Won four times on turf in her native Argentina but in her attempts at the group level and she was no factor in her stateside debut off the layoff; steps up in class while stretching out in distance and has much to prove vs. horses like this.

Deep closer came from way out of it off the layoff last time and just missed in a four-horse photo going shorter at the Fair Grounds; has never tried this kind of distance an she, so far, hasn't been a real late threat vs. stakes rivals in her career, though she has hit the board in two such races at big prices; running style leaves her with a lot to do and she is going to need some pace and trip help in this spot.

Breaking her maiden prove to be real struggle for this mare, who finally broke through over yielding ground at Saratoga last summer while making start number 15; came right back to win again later in that meet when defeating Cap de Creus in another race over rain-softened turf, then went into the stakes ranks for her next two starts; her Flower Bowl is easily forgiven as she was in too tough vs. horses like that, but she has no real excuse in the Zagora when last seen after sitting a nice trip and proving to be no match late; has improved and is not impossible at a price.

Thought this mare was one to keep an eye on while improving throughout her 3yo campaign in 2018 while winning a couple of races and placing in two straight graded stakes races to close out the year; wasn't thrilled that she couldn't carry that improved form into 2019 and, while she had no real chance behind Mean Mary in the La Prevoyante two back, she never made a serious run into that race; has a race available that would give her chance, she just hasn't run it in a while.

Her 2019 campaign didn't end all that well while failing to make an impact in three straight races, including a pair on turf where she couldn't get near Gentle Ruler, but she did run pretty well when finishing a close 2nd over this trip at Del Mar in the summer and the layoff may have done this mare some good; isn't one of the main contenders in here but she can get the distance and has a chance to get a piece if she can show up with her best race an then get a trip from this outside draw.

Arrived from Ireland still a maiden after five starts but she has paid immediate dividends for these connections by winning both starts over this turf course; earned that maiden win two back when making an early move up the rail to get into contention and then finishing gamely to close that race down, and she did it a different way vs. Grade 3 rivals last time when going to the lead and then holding late challengers to prevail; not worried about the added distance of this race but she is facing a better field here and she took the worst of the draw on the far outside. -Mike Beer

CLOSER LOOK: Overcame a 135-day layoff and a poor start to set a controlled pace along the inside en route to her maiden victory at Aqueduct; drew a very comfortable inside post position for her first foray against winners, but likely faces a much-different scenario in terms of pace with other quick ones entered to her outside; think the freshening did her some good and she seems like a professional and handy sort; still, she is taking a steep rise up the class ladder and needs a Beyer boost in order to threaten for top honors; prefer others.

Not surprising that this filly took to turf as her dam was a stakes-winner at 1 1/4 miles in Ireland and is a full sister to Irish 2,000 Guineas winner Roderic O'Connor; barn has historically done well moving from turf to dirt and it's possible this filly is a vastly-different one now than the one that failed to threaten sprinting on dirt in her debut without blinkers (outrun four-wide at the back of the pack at a distance that was probably too short for her); concerned that she'll end up too far back, even with the expected quick pace up front; lots to prove on this surface as she faces winners for the first time.

Needed 13 tries to graduate and one must wonder how much upside is left, but it appears Maker has figured her out and the excellent trainer is showing a great deal of confidence by running her in this very tough spot; beat Pleasant Orb last time and that one returned to graduate with a 75 Beyer Speed Figure; tracked the pace three-wide and in between horses on the backstretch, made a three-wide bid after the leaders on the turn and had to work hard to grind past the runner-up; needs to show more stepping up to this level.

Beautifully-bred filly dominated maidens in her second start; set an uncontested pace through quick fractions and won under a very confident ride; returned to wire them going nine furlongs in the Demoiselle, but she might have been aided by an inside, speed-favoring track; failed to fire at odds-on in seasonal debut; broke a half-step slow, then was sent up to battle a longshot through fast fractions; had no response when the runner-up challenged on the turn and tired along the inside, a path that might have been a bit deep; Mott is 5 for the last 6 (83%, $5.86 ROI) with 3-year-old dirt routers going second off a 61 to 120 day layoff; think she'll appreciate getting back to two turns and might grab the lead; expect improvement, but demand value.

Seven-figure yearling is certainly bred to appreciate this two-turn route and seems to have plenty of upside for Pletcher; debuted going a mile and worked out a nice trip under Velazquez; saved ground in the pocket, shot up the rail on the turn and turned on the jets against an inferior group; gained valuable experience in the Davona Dale; bobbled slightly at the start, pressed the pace while wide and in between rivals, and tried hard for second despite hopping back to her left lead in the stretch; has the tactical speed to work out a nice stalking trip; contender.

Won't argue with anyone that thinks this filly is a bit underrated; overcame a slow start to win her debut at Churchill Downs in nice fashion, then broke slow again and might have made a premature move when nipped in her second start; ended up wide and off the pace at Tampa Bay on a day where it was imperative to stay close to the pace and still was only beaten less than a length; raced in the pocket in the Rachel Alexandra, was in behind horses to the three-sixteenths, then couldn't step with two of the top fillies in the country; while Finite returned to disappoint in the Fair Grounds Oaks, the fourth-finisher in the Rachel Alexandra placed second in the FG Oaks with an 82 Beyer; think she'll get a good pace to attack here; some price potential.

After taking two stakes races at Tampa Bay, she was penciled in for the Ashland, but was re-routed here after Keeneland cancelled their spring meeting; did some good things in the Suncoast, her first start around two turns; pressed the leader along the inside, was wisely rated back to avoid a duel and got to the outside, soon took over the lead under a confident ride and won comfortably; liked the gears she showed in that race as well as her willingness to respond to her rider's commands; she'll be facing tougher competition here, but can get up close to the pace and should be in contention when the real racing begins; swift works at Tampa for high-percentage barn; consider.

Reformed $20,000 maiden claimer had three-race win streak snapped by Tonalist's Shape in the Davona Dale; three and four-wide on the backstretch, she loomed outside while on her right lead on the turn and came within eye-level of Spice Is Nice at the eighth-pole before being turned away by the two chalks; that race proved that she belongs at this level and she's come back to work quickly over the deep Gulfstream West surface; two turns will be the next test she'll face, but a good pace up front could play into her hooves; exotics threat at a price.

Mired on the also-eligible list, this filly would be in very steep if able to break into the body of the race; graduated against $25,000 maiden claimers last time out with a Beyer Speed Figure that pales in comparison to those of the top contenders; raced with cheekpieces on, sat far behind a contested pace, found an inviting seam along the rail turning for home and took advantage of the perfect trip, a journey that is likely not available to here against these tougher horses here. -Dan Illman

CLOSER LOOK: Surrounded a Grade 2 win last July at Saratoga (where a heads-up ride made the difference) with a pair of Grade 1 placings, including a good 3rd in the Sword Dancer over this distance, and he then went on to run well in both the Turf Classic and the Breeders' Cup Turf without winning; didn't factor from off the pace in the Pegasus Turf last time but he obviously has better races to get to and he can be more aggressive early in this spot; earned five triple-digit Beyer's in 2019 and is a real threat to rebound in this spot as he picks up Rosario from the rail.

Didn't race on turf much early on in his career but Maker saw something in this horse and switched him over after taking him for $30k last May; the improvement didn't take long as he crushed a weak field of claimers at Saratoga in his second start off the claim and then stretched out to win an allowance race over this distance at Keeneland shortly thereafter; has finished close up in a pair of Grade 3 races in his last two starts while earning the top two figures of his career and is a threat to take another step forward here, though this is a tougher spot.

Pulled off a big upset in the Grade 3 McKnight two back over this course and distance and earned a career-best 97 Beyer in the process; that race wasn't as tough as this one and he was trounced by Zulu Alpha last time; distance is no issue for this underrated 5yo, who has won 7 of his 13 career starts on turf but would relegate him to underneath status in this spot.

Expensive Curlin colt shaped with some real potential early on for Pletcher, winning his route debut as a 2yo with a good finish after chasing the pace, and then coming right back to close down the Grade 3 Bourbon with a late flourish from far out of it at the top of the stretch; that Bourbon remains his last win though, in his defense, he hasn't gotten that much racing in since then and two of his seven subsequent starts have some in impossible spots on dirt; colt has some talent but also has much to prove vs. horses like this.

Maiden win early last year came for a $20k tag and this guy was claimed four times throughout the remainder of 2019 for tags between $30k and $50k; held good form in those races despite not winning but, as is now becoming commonplace, he improved off the Maker claim to defeat allowance rivals in his 2020 debut over this track; stretches all the way out while stepping way up in class and his late-running style works against him in a race like this.

Hard-hitting 7yo is easy to root for and he likes to win races, though he is really more of a miler and has rarely been tried at the graded stakes level throughout his 34-race career; deserves respect based on his overall form and his reputation as a fighter but this is a tough spot for him to try to stretch all the way out for the first time.

This horse had some potential early on but was never able to deliver on it and turns up here as a 7yo without stakes credentials to back him up; was never a factor in the McKnight that was won by longshot Spooky Channel over course and distance two back and dropped in for $50k to win an off-the-turf race last time with a 71 Beyer; hard to recommend in this spot, unless this race comes off the grass.

It's early yet and the top races for this division are still well out in front of us, but this 7yo has to be considered the leader of the older turf division right now following strong wins in both the Pegasus Turf and the Mac Diarmida with Beyers of 106 and 107; multiple graded stakes winner loves this turf course, handles this distance without issue, is tactical in terms of running style, and is unquestionably the horse to beat in this spot.

Loved the way this horse was brought along by Chad Brown early in his career, as he was allowed to find himself without being pushed into tougher spots, before ultimately becoming a strong finisher going long and winning three of his first four starts in 2018, including a Saratoga stake, before getting Grade 1-placed at the end of that campaign; didn't quite hold that form last year, though he won the Pan American over this course and distance in his first start back and then made three of his next four starts in Grade 1 races; kicks off 2020 for new connections with the back form to contend if he can get the right trip. -Mike Beer

CLOSER LOOK: Bullied his way through to get up for 2nd in the late stages last time in a race that was falling apart late after the speedy Gidu had run off on the front end; that was by far the best effort of his career, as that 97 Beyer towers over his prior figs; may just be rounding into career-best form now as a 4yo, but he's not going to get as favorable setup as last time with far less speed signed on here; drew a cozy inside slot, which will help, but still want to see him produce that form again before supporting him in a race as tough as this.

Just hasn't been the same since returning from a layoff this year; had been in great form last summer at Saratoga, but he hasn't come close to that form in his pair of 2020 outings; was shockingly dull at Tampa two back; peeled outside like he was going to launch a strong rally last time but was just one-paced late despite getting a great pace setup; hard to support off those efforts, but there was a time when he would have made some noise in a race like this; will be a much bigger price today if you're brave enough to keep the faith.

Picked up a G3-placing two back, but that Tropical Turf was significantly softer than this affair despite carrying the same grade; couldn't quite reel in Ballagh Rocks at the optional claiming level last time, a reminder that it's been nearly 2 years since he crossed the wire in front; consistent performer has just never attained a level that makes him a serious threat to win here.

Turf sprinter will attempt to stretch his speed the one-mile distance; put in a career-best performance to be 2nd in a stakes at Kentucky Downs last summer with a Beyer that puts him in the mix at this level; however, he benefited from a speed-favoring course that day and was unable to replicate that form in two subsequent starts; may show speed on the stretch-out, but seems unlikely to be a factor when the real running begins.

G1-placed colt makes his 4yo debut after picking up checks in a number of major races last year; they targeted him towards longer races during the latter part of the season, but it's unclear if he really is best going distances of 1 1/4 miles and beyond; this turnback to a mile makes some sense and he does possess the tactical speed to be relatively close to the lead, despite coming out of some slower-paced longer events; he wouldn't have to improve that much on his excellent Belmont Derby performance, and he certainly has some upside now that he's a year older; one to consider.

The returning Appleton champ figures to be the pacesetter again this year; couldn't get to the lead last time in a race that featured a faster pace that it might appear; it was a similar story in his 2019 finale at Aqueduct, as that Artie Schiller was loaded with front-runners, essentially dooming his chances from the time the race was drawn; he had ben far more successful earlier in the year, earning his career-best 99 Beyer in this race last year; Paco Lopez seems like a good fit for this gelding, who benefits from aggressive tactics; a threat to take them all the way.

He was a beneficiary of that insane early pace in the Canadian Turf, making the last move from far behind after swinging wide in upper stretch; the fact that none of his prior efforts measure up to that performance would lead you to believe that his improvement was a function of the race flow (and the same can be said of English Bee); is capable of sitting closer to the pace when they go slower, but others would appear to be far more likely to capitalize in that scenario.

There was a lot to like about his Canadian Turf victory; he was put in the difficult position of having to make the first move after his run-off stablemate Gidu, yet he reeled that one in and gamely held off the closers; that was his first turf victory, but he's actually run well in all of his efforts over this surface; a mile is the perfect distance for him and his tactical speed figures to be a significant asset given the milder pace complexion of this race; the horse to beat in his current form.

Was unable to capitalize on the quick pace of the Canadian Turf last time as he couldn't sustain his closing momentum in the stretch; attracted a ton of support that day in his first start for the Maker barn, but he didn't show much improvement off the trainer switch; hasn't been able to transfer that strong Churchill Downs form from last fall to different circuits; yet at least he's going to be a much bigger price this time if you still think there's untapped potential here.

Chased a hot pace that ultimately fell apart in the BC Mile, and was hardly disgraced in hanging on for 6th; if anything, that performance legitimized his upset score in the G1 Woodbine Mile last year; while he's among the classiest runners in this field off those efforts, some questions still remain; he's been more of a one-turn specialist throughout his career, racing primarily in elongated turf sprints; so there is some question about whether he can produce his best form around two turns; furthermore, this outside slot is far from ideal considering his stalking style; good enough if he can overcome the obstacles.

AE closed out his 2019 campaign in strong fashion, coming within a length of G1 glory in the Shadwell Turf Mile; while he was sent off at 28-1 that day, his performance was right in line with his generally strong form all year; has proven capable of achieving Beyers in the high-90s on multiple occasions and a mile is certainly within his ideal distance range; if he draws into this race he'll be saddled with a poor post position, but he has run well off layoffs in the past; don't overlook if he gets in.

AE dominated a weaker field of rivals in his own age category two back, but wasn't quite good enough facing an open group in his 4yo debut at Tampa last time; was compromised by getting bumped by the winner in upper stretch, but it didn't appear that he was ever going to win that race; now cuts back slightly to a mile, which may work out quite well for him, considering his earlier success sprinting; though like all the others on this AE list, the post position would be a significant disadvantage.

It's unfortunate that this guy is unlikely to make it into the main body of the field because he'd almost surely be among the favorites if drawn in a reasonable post; probably needed that return at Aqueduct last fall when unable to quicken in the stretch after an awkward start; he put in a far better effort in his graded stakes debut last time, making a wide run to the lead before getting passed late by some rivals who saved more ground; is clearly good enough to be winning graded stakes in this country, even if it's not meant to be this weekend. -David Aragona

CLOSER LOOK: Never off the board, this colt ran a big fig in the Mucho Macho Man; made a three-wide bid as the winner scooted up the rail and it's possible the ground loss contributed to his narrow defeat; finished ahead of two next-out winners in that spot including Sam F. Davis hero (and subsequent Tampa Bay Derby runner-up Sole Volante); tracked in between on the first turn of the Fountain of Youth, found the pocket and tried hard while in a blanket finish for the place although no match for Ete Indien; half-brother to nine-furlong stakes-winner Cage Fighter (turf) still must prove he is as effective at this trip as he is going shorter; figures to show speed from the comfortable inside draw, but might chase quick fractions; has ability, but prefer others on top.

Multiple stakes-winning sprinter failed to threaten at 92 to 1 in his lone two-turn start to date, but he has improved greatly since that outing; has enough pedigree to go longer as his dam was a multiple stakes-winner around two turns and this colt is a half-brother to three blacktype-earning routers; broke slowly in the Hutcheson, tracked four-wide on the backstretch, was under urging while three-wide on the turn and tried hard in between horses to finish a neck behind in a four-horse blanket finish; expecting him to show some speed stretching out from this inside draw and might relax nicely with the removal of blinkers; minor award might be his ceiling as he takes a significant hike in class and distance.

Claimed for $35,000 out of his career debut, this colt has improved steadily for new connections, but will make his first start around two turns while stepping up considerably in class (the American Fabius Stakes was restricted for 3-year-olds which have started for a claiming price of $50,000 or less); hung out four-wide on the backstretch and around the turn behind a moderate pace, he finished solidly for second behind a gate-to-wire winner that was dismissed at a whopping 75 to 1 (Scarto had just graduated for a $30,000 tag); drew a good post position and might get the right pace setup from midpack; perhaps an exotics threat at a price.

He got the right pace scenario in the Smooth Air as the pacesetters went very fast early and horses that raced in sixth, eighth and seventh after the first half-mile ended up completing the trifecta; saved ground in the third flight, angled three-wide and blew by the leaders four-wide while on his right lead early on the turn en route to the comfortable score; missed some time after that race and would be returning from a 119-day layoff if he does compete here (cross-entered on Friday); nicely-bred colt has some potential, but going nine furlongs against this company is a big ask in first start of the year; leaning elsewhere.

Constitution colt has shown potential from the beginning as the $600,000 juvenile purchase was impressive in his debut over sloppy going at Saratoga; took a light bump after the start, tracked the pace outside, bid three-wide on the turn and was a facile winner; exited that race with a rock-solid runner-up effort in first start around two turns in the Breeders' Futurity; barn likes to prepare their promising 3-year-olds in entry-level races at Tampa and this one looked good downing Untitled, a colt that returned to finish second in the Gotham with an 87 Beyer; bobbled slightly at the start, prompted three-wide, was under a hard ride on the turn and went by in the stretch; all-in-all, that was a nice prep run and he is expected to move forward; respect.

Gave a breakout performance in the Remsen as he was up against a strong speed and rail bias, and was still charging at gate-to-wire winner Shotski; outrun behind a very fast pace in the Sam F. Davis, he saved ground on the turn and plodded up for third while well-behind Independence Hall; think he'll improve off that effort considering the pace scenario and added distance, and McLaughlin is 6 for 17 (35%, $2.48 ROI) over the past five years with 3-year-old dirt routers making the second start off a 61 to 120 day layoff; although the pace should be hot, this one-run closer must avoid being completely outpaced early; might fit best on bottom of exotic wagers as he makes his final start for McLaughlin (expected to be turned over to Pletcher next month).

He's likely the leading 3-year-old on this coast and recovered from a mild hiccup over sloppy going to join the triple-digit Beyer club in his seasonal debut; broke sharp in the Holy Bull, prompted the pace inside on the first turn, then was shuffled back and moved to the outside to track the leaders; went after Ete Indien on the turn, went by without much fuss and drew off despite drifting slightly to the rail in the lane; liked the agility he showed as well as the willingness to respond to the rider's commands; missed time between 2/10 and 3/2 after he sprung a shoe, but should be back on the beam with four subsequent drills; tactical speed allows him to make his own trip; dam won multiple stakes on turf at this distance; the horse to beat.

Couldn't get within hailing distance of Soros in his career debut and enters this Grade 1 race as a maiden; showed speed here two weeks ago in seasonal debut as he set a pressured pace along the inside, but he couldn't go with the winner on the turn and just held second despite failing to change leads in the stretch; faces several other quality speed types here as he attempts two turns for the first time; improving incrementally from start to start, but seems in very tough at this level at the current time.

Talented colt popped a 101 Beyer as a November 2-year-old; pressed the pace while in between, took over three furlongs out and drew away while drifting; came back to breeze, albeit with a much-slower speed figure, in the Jerome; didn't break well, pulled his way up to press three wide, again made the front early and went about his business; things didn't go perfectly at Tampa as he reportedly lost his tongue tie before the race and then his right front shoe after the start; tracked a pace duel, but had to go pretty quick to stay close, took over turning into the stretch and was second to a colt that had the best of it from a pace standpoint; half-brother to nine-furlong graded winner Black Onyx (polytrack) should work out a stalking trip; contender.

He's really turned it up a notch since being allowed to stretch his legs around two turns this winter; controlled the pace from start to finish on graduation day in a race where they ran one-two around the track; received a good learning experience when a well-beaten second in the Fountain of Youth; ended up behind horses while saving ground, split rivals on the far turn and finished gamely to just nip some others for the place; galloped out well after the fact and has been working quickly for Pletcher; expecting another midpack trip while in the clear, but not entirely convinced he can make up almost nine lengths on Ete Indien in less than a month.

Although his dam won sprinting on dirt, this colt's lone victory came against fellow Florida-breds on turf and he improved greatly once stretched out in distance on that surface; sole dirt start to date came in a short sprint; showed good speed in that spot, pressed favored R Man Joe from the rail and kept on gamely for third; it seems unlikely that he'll be as close to the pace with all of the other speeds in here; has stern questions to answer regarding surface and class, and this post position isn't a bargain either; might be in a bit too steep.
