CLOSER LOOK: This will be the main track debut for a gelding who was a quiet sixth in his debut in a grass race here in January. He is not helped by an inside draw, but the seven-furlong distance should allow jockey Tiago Pereira ample time to settle on the backstretch. Similar to the other five runners, he is a 3-year-old.

He may go favored, if bettors are willing to forgive the seventh-place finish on turf on March 6. While he was well-beaten in that race, the troubled second on dirt in January is a much brighter performance even if he was beaten six lengths. The good news is this small field lacks a standout.

This first-time starter has decent works in recent weeks and draws jockey Victor Espinoza, who often rides for trainer Jim Cassidy. Since the beginning of 2019, Cassidy has one win with 14 first-time starters. Super Academy was a minor winner. This is her second foal to race. Well Regarded is winless in two starts.

This colt essentially lost all chance in his debut on March 1 when he broke slowly in a turf sprint. For this race, he has drawn an outside post and will be fitted with blinkers for the first time. There are favorable elements here. This is a longer race, a better post and no competition to fear. -Steve Andersen

CLOSER LOOK: This is one of several runners in the field who raced around two turns previously and now runs in a longer sprint, a change that can often lead to a productive result. His last sprint race was a win here on Jan. 25 in a $12,500 claimer. There are so few dirt claimers in Southern California that the class difference is not as significant as it used to be.

This gelding will have his third start of the month and second start in as many weekends, having finished fourth of seven in an optional claimer for state-breds on March 14. He was beaten by double-digit margins in his first two starts here after a layoff of more than nine months. Those races were at a mile and this will be his first start in a sprint since a decent second at Laurel in October 2018. He may need a career-best effort to win.

He figures to be a longshot with only one win in his last seven starts and a quiet fourth in a $40,000 claimer at 1 1-16 miles in February in his latest outing. His problem of late has been at the gate, with slow starts. A top three finish would be progress. -Steve Andersen

CLOSER LOOK:

First dull outing came last time out here Feb. 1 but it was also the first time she'd sprinted; 4 prior starts, all at this mile trip, 3 on turf, were quite smart so the return to this mile distance helps; proven on turf and while her worst result (4th) came on this course at this trip last Oct. 6 that was also a stakes and she was hardly embarrassed, beaten just 2 lengths; has speed to utilize the rail, though 'Teachers' might give her early issues and there's lots of talent that will be in hot pursuit.

Bided her time and finished smartly to be a good 2nd on this course at this trip, though she couldn't quite catch today's foe Teachers Big Dream; while that was nice it also came vs. state-breds only whereas today she must deal with open foes; the good news is her lone win, which came on this course at this trip last fall, was over open maidens; nice to see Franco keep the call.

Sire gets over 13% first time turf winners, over 14% overall turf winners, according to DRF sire stats; sire was 6-3-3-0 for $597K, had 2 SWs including a G1, 3 SPs including a G1, G2, G3, no turf starts; unraced dam's only foal is this filly's full-bro Rowayton (8-2-1-2, $251K, 3 SPs including 2 G1s, 1 G3, no turf starts); cost $900K so you know there are expectations here and while he debut didn't dazzle she still got the job done and there's plenty of room for growth; even so, it's first time vs. winners, first time turf and first time routing.

TRENDING: the right way and she topped off that ascent with a game maiden win on this course at this trip last time out Feb. 29; worked well since but it's first time vs. winners, including Going to Vegas who beat her the last 2 times they met, though 'Vegas doesn't figure to be one of the favorites here; still, it looks as though she's getting the hang of things and obviously the footing/distance suit.

Showned talent in Ireland last year vs. males and in her first start in the U.S. finished gamely to beat maidens on this course Feb. 1; that came sprinting, yes, but note a strong 2nd (in a field of 20) at a mile on turf in Ireland last Sept. 18 so this trip should be no issue; worked strongly and often since and with that Feb. 1 being her first outing in some time (4 months) she could well move forward.

Done little wrong in 4 starts, 3 on turf at this trip, the last 2 on this course topped off by a nice win over Cal-bred optional claimers Feb. 14; speed is her main asset so she figures in the thick of it from the start; trouble is, the rail filly and maybe AE Going to Vegas, should she get in, have speed as well; note Rispoli was up for that smart Feb. 14 win but ends up next door on Shines Her Light today instead, so read into that what you will.

AE comes here red hot off 3 straight big efforts (all on this course at this trip), the last 2 being wins; her last win over optional claimers was a real pip as dueled and drew off so she's getting better; of course, she'd better get better as these are surely tougher and she'll have surely the worst of the draw should she get to play; does have some tactical speed and versatility, though, which give her rider options from what would be a far-outside post. -Michael Hammersly

CLOSER LOOK: Lightly raced colt stretching out for first time, but looks to be in tough vs. Cal-bred allowance rivals. His top speed figure is nowhere close to fig normally required to win this level, and while his sire was distance runner, his female family offers little evidence he wants to go two turns. Too soon in career to state with absolute certainty, but it looks like he might be a late-running sprinter. Will side with others in this spot.

If this race was synthetic, Dano's Dream would be complete standout. Consistent speed figures among highest in field, pressing style suits track profile Santa Anita two-turn dirt. But therein lies the problem. On dirt, veteran gelding did not hit the board five previous starts. Runner-up two recent starts on synthetic behind 10-time winner Uber Star, so Dano's Dream probably is dropping in class into this state-bred allowance/optional claiming race. Footing is the issue.

The horse to beat if last-out debacle at mile and quarter is forgiven. Considering distance, that race is a toss. His runner-up two back in $40k claiming race probably fast enough to defeat this field, and Santa Anita horse-for-course specialist has an up-front style that is generally rewarded on this track. Lopsided number of seconds (7) compared to wins (2), but figures to be involved in the stretch battle and enters as this handicapper's top choice.

Wide trip sealed his fate recent fourth-place comeback. Not a bad effort considering ground loss. His maiden win two back was fast, and he clearly has improved since stretching to two turns. Or, did he improve because he switched to turf? That is the dilemma. Lightly raced (five starts) colt making just his second start back from a layoff, and if he handles the footing should be right there. Based on pedigree, dirt should be fine.

Similar to others this field, surface is the issue for turf specialist who did not hit board four previous starts on dirt. However, his improvement last spring also coincides with stretching to two turns. So, another tough question: did he get better because he stretched out, or was it because he switched to turf? Considering the overall modest quality of this field, willing to give him benefit of doubt and consider him a contender based on acceptable current form.

CLOSER LOOK: His sharp form during autumn deteriorated in winter when he was pitched into a pair of graded stakes and was non-competitive. To be fair, his subpar efforts were on dirt, he prefers turf. He also will benefit by a class drop from Grade 2 into a Cal-bred stakes race. But his current form is dubious, the inside post poses a major challenge considering other speed is drawn to his outside. Seems up against it.

Stakes-winning turf miler curiously spotted at five and one-half furlongs. He finished off the board both previous sprints. In a theoretical sense, front-running milers are okay cutting back to a one-turn sprint, but five and a half is a different story. Respect ability to carry his speed two turns, but uncertain if he can keep up with the quicker tempo of a speed-filled sprint. This handicapper might be flat wrong, but will go against.

After 17 career starts around two turns, veteran gelding will try something brand new. That is, sprint. Neither of his two starts this year were noteworthy however, so his current form is a mystery. Was outclassed last out in a Grade 3, two starts back he merely ran around the course without a rally. Based on shaky form and unestablished sprint ability, The Hunted is difficult to endorse. But he will be running late, and the pace should be legit.

Consistent, reliable gelding freshened two months following gut-wrenching loss to the streaking Fashionably Fast, who came back to win his sixth straight next out. Lieutenant Dan, a stakes winner on dirt and stakes-placed on turf, returns with attributes including established class, versatile running style, and ability to fire fresh. He nominated to the G3 San Simeon on Saturday but will run here vs. Cal-breds. Top contender. Top choice this handicapper.

Among handful of front-runners/pace-pressers in race likely to unfold at a brisk pace, particularly with speedball filly Stealthediamonds drawn directly to his outside. Castle won a similar statebred turf sprint on this course during fall, but that field was not as deep as this. Entered and scratched from a $32k claiming sprint on Feb. 17, sharp recent works to hone his speed, will be dueling up front. The pace scenario works against him.

From an outside post, this front-running filly must go right on with it. And she probably will have company in the form of fellow front-runners Grinning Tiger, Castle and Lieutenant Dan. But would not advise a short-sell on Stealthediamonds. She wins more than her share (four of last six), and she defeated Just Grazed Me on the square last out. Win or lose, she will keep the pace honest.
